

Third Stakeholders' Bioeconomy Conference

Turin 2014

Part 1:

Understanding the bioeconomy as an interconnected system

Sessions:

Connecting the biomass:
illustrating the bioeconomy system in action by following the flows of biomass and residues

Parallel session 2: Food and Feed

Parallel session 2: Food and Feed

Moderator:

Christina Abildgaard (Research Council of Norway & JPI Oceans)

CEREVAL – the Austrian bran biorefinery

- Wolfgang Kneifel (BOKU)
- Markus Prantl (GoodMills Group GmbH)

Sustainable tunafish from the catching to the table

- Emma Tomaselli (RINA)
- Salvatore Angileri (Nino Castiglione srl)
- Vittorio Ramazza (COOP)
- Dario Cartabellotta (Fish Department Sicily Region)

Comments and questions from audience

Conclusions

A background image showing a gloved hand using tweezers to carefully place a small green seedling into a petri dish. The petri dish contains a yellow liquid medium. The scene is set in a laboratory environment, symbolizing scientific research and development.

Motivation for a sustainable development

- Future of the earth
- Society
  - Jobs, food security, welfare and wellbeing
  - Long term perspective
- Industry
  - Value creation
  - Maintain competitiveness

Need for

- Coherent policy framework
- Long term and predictable
- Multi-disciplinary Research, Development and Innovation
- Competent investors
- Networks – Public Private Partnerships
- Communication

Bioeconomy for a sustainable future

Bioeconomy for a sustainable future

